PRICEDALE TRIAL OPENS

Russia Claims It Has Taken Missile Lead

Reds Say They Can Send Rocket Anywhere; Called Propaganda

By UNITED PRESS

Russia said today it has beaten the world to the "absolute weapon"—the intercontinental ballistic missile. The U. S. sources were inclined to regard the Soviet claim as a bid for "victory through hot-air power."

The official Soviet agency Tass said in Moscow that a "super long distance intercontinental multi-stage ballistic rocket" launched somewhere in Russia recently reached an "unprecedented altitude," covered a "huge distance in a brief time" and "landed in the target area."

"The results obtained show that it is possible to direct rockets into any part of the world," Tass said.

U.S. government experts said the United States came to this conclusion some time ago. The question is whether the Russians really have a weapon ready for production that can convert the possibility into reality.

Other Western experts, while conceding that Russia undoubtedly has a well-advanced missile program, were openly skeptical about today's claim

"We don't take it as gospel that this weapon can reach any place in the world," Air Chief Marshal (Gen.) Sir Dermot Boyle, chief of Britain's air staff, told high-ranking commonwealth airmen in London.

"We believe the threat in some degree to exist, but that has been taken into account in our planning for some years."

Viewed As High Pressure

Western observers at the current arms talks in London regarded the Russian claim as an attempt to high - pressure other nations of the atomic "Big Five" into accepting Soviet proposals for disarmament.

U. S. senators shared the view that the Russian claim was intended primarily for propaganda purposes. Sen. Prescott Bush (R-Conn.) said the Tass report is "ridiculously vague ... almost impossible to evaluate."

Sen. Harry M. Jackson (D-Wash.), of the Senate Armed Forces Committee said the claim appears to be "ballistic blackmail" along the line of Russia's recent threats to annihilate America's allies with H-bombs in any new war.

"I don't think we can take this too lightly, but no doubt the Russians are going to use the announcement for propaganda purposes in the light of the situation in Syria," Jackson said.

Viewed As Same Line

"It is an attempt by the Russians to follow the same line they used before against Denmark, Norway and Britain. Now they are extending their sights and range a little to include other allies and the United States itself."

In Miami Beach, Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) assailed the Eisenhower administration for "slowing down" its long - range missile program at a time when Russia may be forging ahead.

"Money is now taking priority over national security..." said Symington, who was Air Force secretary in the Truman administration. "I believe this is an inherent national tragedy because the life of the nation is at stake."

Even if taken at face value, the Tass statement is too indefinite

Dulles Doubts Russian Boast

WASHINGTON (UP) — Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said today that Russia's claim to have developed intercontinental ballistics missiles will not affect the East-West balance of military power now.

Dulles voiced doubt that the Russians accomplished any sudden breakthrough in the long range missiles field.

He noted that the Soviet announcement was not precise and was carefully worded.

Open Bids Today For New School In Perryopolis

A group of school officials, including supervising principal G. Edgar Hibbs and board president Dr. Bruno L. Bonucci, will be in Harrisburg for the bid opening.

Other projects in the Frazier bequest are a street lighting system, already completed, and sewage disposal system, now under construction.

Wise lives in New Eagle, while McGraw is a resident of South Webster, Ohio. They were rushed to the hospital after a one car mishap near Scottdale last Thursday.

Monessen, Charleroi Link in Slaying of Gambler Is Reported

An informant reportedly told Alleheny County detectives today that Wheeling gambler Nick Miller may have been murdered after he "walked into a trap" in Monessen.

The informant, supposedly familiar with Wheeling rackets, also suggested that Miller may have been trapped in East Pittsburgh, Duquesne or Charleroi, where powerful racketeers are said to be based.

"I think Miller tried to square somebody," he said. "He tried to patch up some kind of trouble and stuck his nose into somebody else's business and was murdered for it."

Monessen Police Chief Michael Kuvinka is on vacation, but Police Lt. James Horan said he knew nothing of the case.

Relatives Here

"As far as I know, no Allegheny County authorities have asked our cooperation," said Lieutenant Horan.

Several of Miller's relatives live in Monessen.

His brother Milan was arrested in 1954 for selling liquor illegally at a "speakeasy" at 1134 Schoonmaker Ave., according to Monessen police records.

Miller's father, Milan Vosvick Sr., also lived here at one time. His sister, Mrs. Mary Vosvick Ortolona, currently lives in the city.

Monessen police said they had "no record" on Miller, who apparently never lived here. However he had been a frequent visitor to the city.

Detectives started searching for a "new angle" today after lie detector tests cleared an Ohio used car dealer and his red-haired woman associate who had been with Miller before his death.

County Detective Chief Henry Peiper disclosed that the tests were unproductive.

Looking for 'Angle'

Pieper said the woman, Mrs. Ruby Harrington, alias Vickie Morris, 25, Mt. Vernon, Ohio had been permitted to return home after the questioning. The car dealer, Jack (Doggy) Russell, 55, Cleveland, was asked to remain here pending further inquiry.

"I'm still trying to find an angle," Pieper admitted Monday night. He said that as far as "I'm concerned at the present time" Mrs. Harrington and Russell had no part in the death of Miller, a reputed big time gambler in the Wheeling district.

Miller's body, clad only in shorts and socks, was found last Thursday stuffed in the trunk of his automobile, which was parked on a side street of Wilkinsburg, a Pittsburgh suburb.

An autopsy indicated he had been dead five days, but did not pinpoint a cause of death. Asked if the gambler might have been slain in West Virginia and his body driven to Pennsylvania, Pieper said, "It's possible."

Mrs. Harrington and Russell were reported seen with Miller in the Wheeling tavern the gambler operated on the night of Aug. 16-17.

Ticket to Columbus

The woman said Miller had bought her an airplane ticket to Columbus on the next day and had telephoned her that evening to find if she had arrived home safely. That apparently was the last contact with Miller before his death.

Pieper readily admitted that his detectives had been unable to de-

New Housing Development in Lynnwood Planned

A 28 acre site in Lynnwood will be developed for both home and commercial building, it was announced today.

George W. Hynes, who heads the development, said the area will be divided into 24 housing and two commercial lots.

The location will be known as Washington Heights. It is situated on Vernon St. off Route 711 in Washington Twp.

According to Hynes, the development has been approved by the Fayette County Planning Commission.

Hynes said that he and his associates have already constructed a blacktop road for seven tenths of a mile through the development at a cost of about $15,000.

The housing lots each have 225 foot frontage and 145 foot depth.

Hynes disclosed that tentative plans call for the development of about 50 adjoining acres at some later date.

Rostraver Free Fair In Opening Tonight

Exhibits were being arranged today for the 15th annual Rostraver Township Fair at the Junior High Building.

Much of the judging will take place this afternoon. The fair will formally open at 7 o'clock this evening.

A highlight of the opening night festivities will be the crowning of Miss Delphine Morgan as fair queen. She will reign for the three nights of the township show.

Miss Morgan will be crowned by Mrs. Jean Budd, president of the Band Parents Association. It was that organization which sponsored the queen contest.

Serving as attendants to Miss Morgan will be Joan Buck and Eleanor Kurylo. Other contestants will also be introduced, including Lila Cinerski, Karen Streets, Joyce Sampey, Lois Ahlborn, Beverly Sickles and Carol Boltze.

A midget league baseball game between Pricedale and Fellsburg will precede the fair opening at the Junior High stadium. The game is scheduled to begin at 5:30 p.m.

At 8 p.m., the Rostraver High School band will present a concert under the direction of John Pelar. At 9 p.m., the Lebanon Chorus will offer a program of vocal music in the gym.

Fair exhibits will be judged in three main classifications: livestock, home economics and farm produce. There is no admission charge and the public is invited.

House to Vote Today On Civil Rights Bill

WASHINGTON (UP) — Congress today threw a one-two punch at the major bills in the way of adjournment: Civil rights and foreign aid.

The House called up the new compromise civil rights bill for passage that was expected by mid-afternoon.

The Senate sought a final vote by nightfall on the battered foreign aid appropriations bill — now restored to $3,025,660,000. That was $308,750,000 less than the amount called for by President Eisenhower.

At the same time, this was the status of other major bills with a chance for congressional action:

FBI Files: The House called up for debate its bill aimed at protecting the sanctity of the FBI files in criminal trials. The Senate Monday night passed another FBI files bill despite the FBI claim that the Senate bill doesn't go far enough.

Pay Raises: The Senate may act before the end of the week on two House-passed bills that would grant pay raises to 1½ million postal and other federal workers. Republicans have predicted a presidential veto on both.

Postal Rates: The Senate also possibly may act on a House-passed administration bill boosting postal rates 500 million dollars a year but chances appeared slim.

Immigration: The House was expected to act on a Senate-passed bill that would ease refugee admissions under the Walter-McCarran Immigration Act. The bill does not affect the status of 28,000 Hungarian refugees admitted to the United States as parolees during the Hungarian revolt last fall.

Southerners thought they still might have a remaining weapon against the civil rights bill in the House—absenteeism caused by adjournment fever. It opened a possibility for delaying tactics.

But House leaders said the problem was licked. They put out a call for absentees to be present by

'Master Plan' Meeting Here

The Monessen Planning Commission and the Citizens Advisory Group will hold a joint meeting at the City Hall Thursday at 8:30 p. m., it has been announced by Dr. J. Karl Beery, chairman of the latter group.

The two bodies will discuss developments to date in the preparation of a "master plan" for Monessen. Both groups were appointed by the City Council.

Community Planning Associates, Inc., professional engineering consultants to the Planning Commission, will be represented at the meeting, Dr. Beery said.

Claims Electronic Eavesdropping Device Overrated

SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — The efficiency of new electronic eavesdropping devices has been overrated, even before Congress, according to a former Philadelphia District Attorney.

The attorney, Samuel Dash, said he reached the conclusion in preliminary findings of a $50,000 Ford Foundation study he has been conducting across the nation for the past year.

"There has been much discussion by so-called experts, before gullible legislators, of extraordinary devices that sent them home in terror," Dash told the National Association of County and Prosecuting Attorneys Monday.

He said one "expert" told Congress there was a device for mind-reading. He told the lawmakers that doctors have an electronic instrument which records brain waves, but Dash said he admitted after the hearings that there is no device to translate the brainwaves.

Turning to the more practical devices which record conversations over telephones or in homes and offices, Dash said the best equipped people in these fields are the racketeers.

"As prosecutors, you may have a few thousand dollars invested in such devices," Dash said. "Many racketeers have 10 or 15 times as much money tied up."

Steubenville Store Robbed by Four Men

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio (UP)—Four robbers wearing Halloween-type masks entered the city's largest department store today as employes were reporting to work, broke open two safes and fled with an undetermined amount of cash.

The men remained in The Hub department store from about 6:50 a.m. until 7:55 a.m., holding employes hostage as they came into the store.

About 15 employes were crowded in an information room at the rear when the robbers left the store. The gunmen fled north in an automobile in which a fifth man had waited at the wheel. The car, bearing Ohio license plates, was believed stolen. The plates also were stolen.

Two watchmen and a man who operates the store's delivery service were in the building when the four robbers, wearing flesh-colored, rubberized masks, entered.

One of the bandits stood guard over the employes in the information room, another stood at the main entrance of the store and the others went to the credit office on the first-floor balcony and attacked the two safes with a heavy sledge hammer, crowbar and chisel.

Detective Umberto Porreca said the robbers may be members of an out-of-state gang, aided by a local "finger-man."

Mone Anathan Jr., store president, and his brother, Robert, vice president, said it would take some time to determine how much was taken. They said the store was open until late Monday night.

Willy Humble, in charge of The Hub deliveries, was knocked unconscious when he spoke to the bandit.

As other store workers arrived, They were waved into the infor-

Many Jurors Questioned in Murder Case

A jury of six men and six women began listening to testimony today in the murder trial of Edwanrd Banks, a Pricedale millworker who is accused of slaying his wife Ruby with a shotgun blast last April.

Seating of a jury was delayed because of the state's insistence on obtaining jurors favoring the death penalty in capital cases. A total of 109 prospective jurors was examined before the 12th member of the panel, Richard T. Jennings, a retired Greensburg businessman, was admitted this morning.

The case is being prosecuted by Edward Doran and Earl Keim, Westmoreland county assistant district attorneys.

In his opening statement, Doran asked the jury to return one of four verdicts; first degree murder, second degree murder, voluntary manslaughter or acquittal.

First Witness

Doran stated that Banks waited for his wife outside a neighbor's house following a quarrel. He called her "baby", then shot her at almost point-blank range.

According to Doran, Banks and his wife quarrelled over whether she should return home. Banks, he argued, became angered when his wife said she was going to a "club" rather than accompany him home.

The first witness called by the state was David Watkins, of Greensburg R. D. 1, a professional engineer. He provided a sketch of the area where the slaying occurred.

The start of the trial was delayed when many prospective jurors said they did not favor the death penalty.

Ezerski on Defense

Keim interviewed the prospective jurors for the prosecution while Robert Carson Sr. of Greensburg represented the defense in the jury selection.

Frank Ezerski, Monessen attorney, will present the defense's case.

The jury selection started yesterday. Of the 52 persons called, only six were seated on the jury.

Mrs. Harriet W. Painter, of Southwest Greensburg, a housewife, was the first juror selected yesterday and automatically became the jury foreman.

Jurors Selected

The other jurors selected were Robert Domalsky, Latrobe; Daniel W. Casper, South Greensburg; Edward Mismas, South Lincoln Twp.; Mrs. Carrie Ludwig, Seward, and Mrs Hazel Artman, Allegheny Twp.

Banks is on trial for the shotgun shooting of his 26 year old wife after a quarrel in Pricedale.

Turtle Creek Man Is Plant Victim

PITTSBURGH (UP) — James Macey, 50, of 103-A Harper Drive, Turtle Creek, was injured fatally Monday night when struck by a falling welding ring at the Westinghouse Electric Corporation plant in East Pittsburgh.

The Allegheny County coroner's office said Macey died of shock and hemorrhage resulting from a pelvic fracture.

Judge Weiss in First Jury Case; Needed no Jury

Judge David H. Weiss, of Monessen, heard his first jury case today in Westmoreland County Court, Greensburg. But he managed to resolve the issue without the jury's help.

The case involved an aggravated assault and battery charge against Lorene Gorna, of South Greensburg. It was filed by her sister, Mary Orbin, also of South Greensburg.

After hearing testimony, Judge Weiss called the two sisters into his chambers and talked to them for a half an hour.

When he returned, Judge Weiss asked the jury to return a verdict of not guilty and to place the costs on the county.

The sisters, who were described as "bitter enemeies" at the start of the trial, walked out of the courtroom "hand-in-hand" after agreeing to forget past differences.

Judge Weiss, in another case, fined Thomas Dotson, of Rostraver Twp., $150 in costs or five days in jail for a violation of the motor vehicle code.

Dotson told Judge Weiss that he was unable to pay the fine because he was on furlough from Duquesne Light Co.

"As long as you are on furlough you can spend five days in jail," replied the judge.

Judge Weiss, the first city man ever to serve on the Westmoreland County bench, was appointed by Gov. George Leader and was sworn-in Aug. 16. He spent his first day in court yesterday.

GOP Chairman Is Named for Third District

Edward F. Stefl, a Mt. Pleasant attorney, will serve as Republican campaign chairman in Westmoreland County's third legislative district for the upcoming general election in November, it was announced today.

The third district includes Monessen, Rostraver Twp., West Newton and North Belle Vernon.

Edwin A. Swink, GOP county chairman, also disclosed that C. C. (Tip) Mason of Greensburg will head the campaign in the first legislative district.

A chairman in the second district will be selected soon, Swink said.

John Jenks of Apollo has been named special promotion chairman for the campaign. He is also chairman of the Westmoreland County Federation of Young Republicans.

County Republican candidates will meet soon to draw up a platform, Swink said.

It was also announced that an inter-county rally involving Westmoreland, Fayette and Washington counties, will be held the latter part of September. A nationally-known speaker will be the major attraction, according to Swink.

Shapiro Meddling Charged

HARRISBURG (UP)—A Republican legislative leader today praised two state mental hospital superintendents and accused Welfare Secretary Harry Shapiro of meddling.

Rep. Norman Wood (R-Lancaster), chairman of the House appropriations Committee said he was "impressed" by the work done at the Wernersville and Allentown State Hospitals. He lauded Wernersville superintendent Dr. Howard Fiedler for his progress in community relations. Dr. Paul Petree was cited for the production on the Allentown insititution's 860-acre hospital farm.

"Although the superintendents and staff at both hospitals were reluctant to say so, they clearly implied that they were deeply disturbed with Welfare Secretary Harry Shapiro's directives to curtail hospital farm operations and to remove personnel from their homes on the hospital grounds," Wood said.

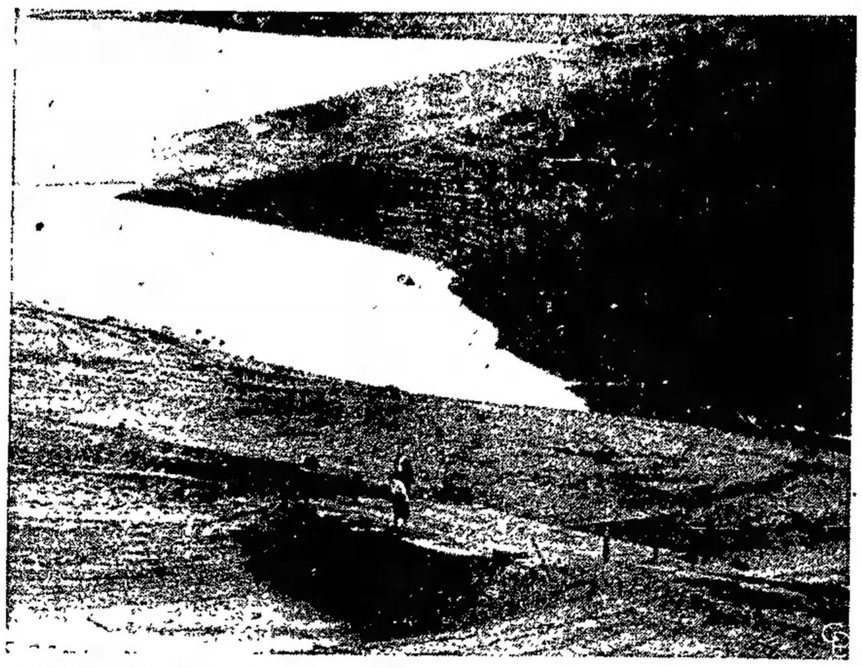
Visits Hospitals

Wood, who visited both hospitals last Friday, said the two institutions would lose rent money amounting to about $85,000 annually. He said neither superintendent could give "sound reason" for the ruling.

Shapiro ordered the hospitals last August to have all persons not directly responsible with patients' care moved off institutional grounds and recently followed up with a directive that the order be carried out. The eviction applied to all personnel except doctors.

Wood said he was told at both hospitals that funds appropriated by the 1957 Legislature would allow continuation of the present level of patient care. He added that five additional attendants and three psychiatrists would be hired at Allentown.

"We were left with a very strong impression that if Secretary Shapiro would stop interfering in hospital adminstraton, that hospital personnel would be far happier and their worthwhile programs would not be unnecessarily hampered," Wood said.



THIS BRIDGE LAST SEEN FOUR YEARS AGO — A German man and woman stand on the Neidermerben bridge, last seen four years ago when the Eder river reservoir was completed. Heavy Turnout in Wisconsin For Special Senate Election

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UP) — Party leaders expected a relatively heavy turnout of 800,000 Wisconsin voters today in a special election to name a successor to the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy.

A heavier vote probably would favor Republican nominee Walter J. Kohler in the race against Democrat William Proxmire since the state normally has more GOP voters.

Although the campaign was marked by apathy, party spokesmen said they observed a quickening of interest as the election approached and revised their voter estimates upward.

However, official state estimates still saw a top vote of 600,000 and said the total could be as low as the primary total of 460,000.

Three-Time Governor

Kohler, 53, a three-time governor, and Proxmire, 41, who lost to Kohler in two gubernatorial races, are the leading candidates in a field of five. Running independently are Howard Boyle, a "McCarthy Republican," Mrs. Georgia Cozzini and Douglas Wheaton.

Boyle was given an outside chance of playing the role of "spoiler" for a second time.

He ran in the Republican Senate primary in 1956 as a backer of McCarthy and drew 19,800 votes. Boyle's total hurt the chances of former Rep. Glenn R. Davis, who lost to Sen. Alexander Wiley by 10,000 votes in that race.

Kohler, regarded as an Eisenhower Republican, and his supporters refused to recognize Boyle as a serious challenge, but took pains to criticize Boyle for entering the race.

High Stakes

The election stakes were high for both parties, nationally and in Wisconsin.

Election of a Democratic senator, the first from the state since 1932, would give Democrats more solid control of the Senate. Election of Kohler would put Republicans in a position to take over possible future control of the upper chamber. The Democrats now have a 49-46 edge, with one vacancy.

The Republicans would have to gain a 48-48 tie in the Senate to take control because Vice President Richard Nixon would vote in a tie.

Shubert Theatres In Philadelphia Get 'Live' Music

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — Officials of the Shubert Theaters Corp., and Local 77 of the American Federation of Musicians Monday signed a new wage agreement, assuring patrons of four of the city's five legitimate theaters of "live" music for the next two years.

The agreement negotiated with the Shubert Corp., managers of the Shubert, Forrest and Walnut Theaters, is identical with the contract covering the Erlanger Theater, owned by William Goldman, which was signed earlier.

The Locust Street Theater, recently leased to Manny Davis, is the only one without an agreement with the musicians union. Negotiations between Davis and the union will begin Sept. 4.

Under terms of the new contracts, musicians will be grated a 3 per cent wage increase the first year and a 5 per cent boost the second year. Weekly wages were $85 for straight show musicians under the old contract and $117.50 for musical shows.

The size of orchestras for straight plays (non musicals) has been set at six musicians and 20 men for musicals. In the past the orchestras for straight productions varied from five to seven men.

Pilot Dies in Crash; Houses' Occupants Saved

PITTSBURGH (UP) — A Navy training plane crashed into two houses in the mining community of Clinton, five miles west of Greater Pittsburgh Airport, Monday and exploded in flames.

The houses were destroyed by fire but their six occupants, who included three children, escaped unharmed.

The pilot, Lt. Robert H. Krane, 30, of nearby Ben Avon, was killed in the crash.

The propeller - driven T28, a single - engine two - seater, developed engine trouble shortly after taking off from the airport on a flight to Youngstown, Ohio. Krane apparently attempted an emergency landing in an open field but the engine failed over Clinton and crashed into the home of Maurice Ritchey.

to indicate the extent of the claimed Soviet achievement. Defense officials in Washington said that if it merely means the Russians have tested an ICBM it does not represent any significant advance.

Missile Blew Up

The United States launched its first ICBM in June. For reasons that have not been announced officially, the self-destroying element installed as a safety measure blew up the missile soon after the start of its flight.

More promising results have been achieved in U.S. tests of an "intermediate range" missile, designed to reach targets within 1,500 miles. Test rockets fired from the Florida coast have traveled over 3,000 miles, more than half the 5,500-mile "intercontinental" range.

Adm. Arthur W. Radford, who retired as chairman of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff last month, said at the time he did not know whether the United States or Russia was ahead in long-range missile development.

He added, however, that whichever nation happened to be ahead at the moment could hope for more than a temporary advantage which would have no major effect on the world military situation.

Latrobe Steelman Killed in Crash

SHREWSBURY, Mass. (UP) — Robert S. Rose, 52, New England manager of the Latrobe, Pa., Electric Steel Co., was killed in a truck-car collision on Route 9 late Monday.

Steel Merger Plans Approved

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Directors of Superior Steel Corp. and Copperweld Steel Co. have agreed "in principle" on a plan to merge the two firms.

Under the proposal, the merger would be effected by the issue of three-quarters of a share of Copperweld common stock in exchange for each share of Superior common.

If the merger goes through, Superior business would be conducted as a division of Copperweld. The companies said there would be no change in personnel with present officers of Superior occupying appropriate management positions in the Superior division of Copperweld.

termine where Miller was killed.

"Our first job is to find out whether the murder happened in Allegheny County," he said. "If it did, I will try to solve it."

Before leaving Wheeling Oct. 17, Miller had taken his wife and children to a resort area near the city and said he was leaving on a short vacation. Pieper said he had endeavored to contact Mrs. Miller at her home Monday but was unsuccessful.

Miller was reported to have been a close associate of William (Big Bill) Lias, Wheeling gambler and former race track owner who now is under a deportation order. But Lias was reported to have denied having any business dealings with Miller for more than 10 years.

Gets 90 Days for Bigamy, Perjury

WAYNESBURG, Pa. (UP)—Mrs. Vesta Szopo, 24, was sentenced Monday to 90 days in jail and fined $100 after she pleaded guilty to bigamy and perjury.

The charges were filed after her parents had asked Greene County authorities to check on her marriage here last December to Charles Szopo, local golf pro.

County Det. Charles P. Meighen said the former Kansas, woman had failed to disclose she never had been divorced from her second husband and that she had left him an their children to come to Waynesburg to be married.

Comic Strips Wage Feud; But in 'Fun'

NEW YORK (UP) — A running feud was in full swing today between two of the nation's top comic strips.

"Li'l Abner" depicts a "black-hearted old nosey body" named "Mary Worm" and the comic strip, "Mary Worth," includes a "fat-headed egomanic" called "Hal Rapp."

So far, "Li'l Abner" has shown the "real life" Mary Worm as a noisy, mink-coated old battle-axe who is the mother-in-law of her creator, "Allen Flounder." As pictured by Al Capp, in the United Features comic strip, Flounder wants to get rid of her because she talks too much.

The creators of Mary Worth, Allen Saunders and Ken Ernst, have answered "Li'l Abner" in their own Publishers Syndicate comic strip.

Under guidance of the Saunders-Ernst team Mary Worth has thought "shades of bluebeard," as Hal Rapp pushed around his assistant artist for interrupting him.

Rapp and Flounder, respectively, are easily-recognizable caricatures of Capp and Saunders.

As the two strips pounded away at each other with unmerciful satire, fans began to wonder Monday, just how serious the feud was getting to be.

A quick check revealed "the disappointing truth." It is all because comic strip creators get along so well.

Contacted in Boston, Al Capp said the feud was actually an elaborate plot hatched by himself and Saunders last year at a comic council meeting in Washington.

"Although professionals in all other fields were at each other's throats, cartoonists got along well, showing great admiration for one another," Capp said.

U. S. Hoping Syria's Neighbors Can Halt Pro-Soviet Influence

WASHINGTON (UP)—U.S. officials said today the United States hopes Syria's Arab neighbors will urge Syria to ease away from its pro-Soviet policies.

The most up - to - date official American view on the Syrian crisis was expected to be revealed by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles. He called his first news conference since pro - Communist Syrian militarist leaders began tightening their hold on Syria's Soviet-equipped armed forces.

American officials doubt the United States alone can do anything to change the Syrian drift to the left. But experts hope that Jordan, Lebanon, Saudi Arabia, Iraq and possibly Egypt might have some influence with the Syrians.

Dispatches Trouble Shooter

Dulles dispatched his ace trouble shooter, Deputy Undersecretary of State Loy W. Henderson, to the Middle East last week end. Henderson at meetings in Turkey already has talked about the Syrian crisis with Turkish Premier Adnan Menderes, King Hussein of Jordan and King Feisal of Iraq.

State Department officials vigorously denied statements made in Syria and elsewhere that Henderson is trying to get some sort of armed action against Syria by members of the Baghdad Pact. They said Henderson's mission is to gather information from Syria's neighbors on how they view the Syrian problem.

Neighbors Upset

Syria's neighbors, Arab and non-Arab alike, are upset over the large number of Soviet arms and technicians pouring into Syria. The unusual activity has prompted fear the Syrians may eventually try aggression.

While the United States hopes that other Arab countries will put pressure on Syria, there is some doubt that anything other than political influence will work.

Ike Signs Bill Giving Kinzua Dam Its Start

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower has signed a Public Works and Water Resources Development bill allocating $9,550,000 for flood control and navigation projects in Pennsylvania, including one million dollars for start of construction on the controversial Kinzua dam in the Allegheny River.

The bill, which the President said he signed reluctantly because of the addition of unbudgeted local projects, appropriated a total of $858,094,323 for the civil functions of the Army Corps of Engineers and units of the Interior Department.

In addition to the Kinzua project, near Warren, the bill provided for the following Pennsylvania projects:

Bear Creek Reservoir, Lehigh River, Haven, Luzerne County, $2,200,000; Allentown - Bethlehem, $350,000; Bradford, McKean County, channel improvement, $500,000; Braddock, Dam 8, Allegheny County, $1,000,000; Dyberry Reservoir, $1,500,000; and Stillwater Reservoir, Columbia County, $2,000,000.

In a speech statement, Eisenhower criticized the action of congressional members in adding 700 million dollars worth of projects, opposed by the administration, while demanding economy in other fields. All the Pennsylvania projects, however, were administration endorsed.

this afternoon to speed the bill to the Senate.

The compromise bill would give the attorney general authority to use injunctions to protect voting rights. But it also would guarantee jury trials to persons charged with criminal contempt when judges seek to impose fines exceeding $300 or sentences of more than 45 days.

The Senate Appropriations Committee Monday restored $500,900,000 of the more than 800 million dollars slashed by the House from the foreign aid bill.

However, the administration's partial victory faced a possibly short life.

Senate critics of the foreign aid program planned to try for at least one more slash at the bill as it moved through the Senate. And Rep. Otto E. Passman (D - La.), chairman of the House appropriations subcommittee that originally cut it, predicted the House would never go along with the half-billion increase.

Other congressional news:

TVA: Sen. Robert S. Kerr (D-Okla.) forecast that Arnold R. Jones—Eisenhower's nominee as director of the Tennessee Valley Authority—had a "50-50 chance, at best" of winning Senate confirmation. Democratic opposition continued to increase.

Public Works: The President signed reluctantly the $858,094,323 public works bill. The bill carried more than 18 million dollars less than he requested. But he complained it included many unbudgeted items that would drive up the cost in future years.

Oil: The Senate anti-trust subcommittee said the President may have approved an illegal plan to restrict oil imports by voluntary agreement during the Suez Canal crisis last year. The subcommittee majority said the oil lift organized to supply Europe during the crisis should have been handled by the government—not private companies.

The bandits remained in the store until 8 a.m., then fled in an automobile. Store employes said a driver was waiting in the car which bore Ohio license plates.

What loot the gunman obtained was not immediately determined. The safe in the information room was untouched, however.

VFW Parade May Be Marred By Anti-Batistas

MIAMI BEACH (UP)—The Veterans of Foreign Wars planned to stage their annual convention parade today even though rumors circulated a band of militant Cuban exiles hoped to break up the proceedings with a demonstration against the government of President Fulgencio Batista.

The parade was scheduled over a mile and one-half route along Miami Beach's famed Lincoln Road and Collins Avenue, starting at 7:30 p.m.

A member of the July 26th Assn., a band of Cuban rebels, told a friend Monday night that members of the group planned to break into the center of the parade about a half block before the marchers reach the reviewing stand.

The parade, a highlight of the VFW's 58th national encampment here, will present 10,000 marchers, 50 bands, several floats, and championship drill teams.

Hoffa to Face More Charges From AFL-CIO

WASHINGTON (UP) — The AFL-CIO's Ethical Practices Committee today filed a new set of charges against Teamsters Union Vice President James R. Hoffa

The committee said the charges were based primarily on evidence against Hoffa uncovered by the Senate Rackets Committee. Hoffa testified four days before the committee last week.

The charges against Hoffa and other high Teamster official previously named will be aired at a hearing late next week in Washington. The charges were not made public.

An AFL-CIO sources said that some allegations other than those made by Senate investigators are included in the committee's evidence against Hoffa, heir-apparent to the presidency of the nation's largest single union.

The new charges against Hoffa were announced shortly before the Ethical Practices Committee began hearings on alleged corruption in the United Textile Workers.

Two-man Committee

Committee Chairman Al J. Hayes, and Jacob Potofsky, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, sat as a two - man committee.

UTW President Anthony Valente and Secretary - Treasurer Lloyd Klenert, accused of misusing $128,000 in union funds, appeared with 20 members of the UTW executive board at the hearing.

Hayes said information disclosed by the Senate Rackets Committee and evidence from the files of the old AFL will be brought up in the hearing on the UTW.

The ethical practices group will report to the AFL-CIO Executive Council at a meeting next month in New York City and the council will decide what action to take. The council has the power to suspend a union but expulsio nis reserved for decision by the AFL-CIO convention.

Hayes, labor's clean-up director, said the Senate committee has produced valuable information which has helped the AFL-CIO in its campaign against corruption, but the disclosures are also hurting organized labor.

He said employers are using the charges to launch a "broad-scale attack designed to cripple our organization."

Hoffa to Have Opposition for Teamsters Post

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Midwest Teamster boss James Hoffa of Detroit, named as likely successor to retiring Teamster President Dave Beck, today prepared to battle with Thomas L. Hickey of New York for the $50,000-a-year post at the union's international convention at Miami Beach Sept. 30.

Hickey, a Teamster vice president, announced Monday he will oppose Hoffa for the presidency of the powerful union. Both Hoffa and Hickey squared off in verbal blasts prior to the opening session of an Executive Board meeting.

"If Hoffa is elected, it will show that the Teamsters don't give a hoot for public opinion," Hickey charged. "We can't afford that kind of reputation."

Hoffa wasted no time in making a counter charge. He claimed Hickey and an associate, Martin Lacey, former boss of the union's New York City local, failed to warn the Executive Board about infiltration of gangsters and racketeers into the New York locals. However, Hoffa refused to comment on his alleged deals regarding "paper" locals controlled by New York mobster Johnny Dio.

Beck refused to indorse either men seeking his post. He said, "it is up to the Teamsters to select and elect any candidate they want."

Seven Await Grand Jury on Election Libel

NEW CASTLE, Pa. (UP)—Seven Lawrence County residents were free on bond today pending action of a grand jury on charges they circulated libelous material during the campaign preceding the primary elections in the county last May.

The defendants, named in actions filed by the state Department of Justice because the allegations involved the incumbent district attorney and sheriff of the county, were arraigned before Justice of the Peace C.E. Anderson of Neshannock Township Monday. Bonds ranged from $2,000 to $3,000.

State police said one of the defendants, Frank Acquaviva, New Castle millworker, attempted to assault a news photographer in the squire's office. The cameraman, Lester Leasure, of the New Castle News, was not injured.

The informations against the defendants, filed by Atty. Gen. Thomas D. McBride, charged that libelous printed matter was distributed attacking the election opponents of Dist. Atty. Perry L. Reher and Sheriff Frank L. Coen.

In addition to Acquaviva, the defendants were Samuel F. Ascione, Ben Ciccone, Patsy A. Dando, Adolp E. Gennare, Frank Natale, and Edward E. Tucker. An eighth defendant, Sally Saunders, was reported to have left the area without leaving a forwarding address.

Bond for Tucker was set at $3,000 and for the others at $2,000.

Russian Jets to Make Trip Here

WASHINGTON (UP) — Russia will show off to America next month two of its 500-mile-an-hour jet airliners.

U. S. officials admitted ruefully today the Soviets may realize some good publicity out of whisking the Russian delegation to the United Nations from Moscow to New York in the speedy planes. They will arrive at a time when the United States has hundreds of jet military craft — but no jet passenger planes in scheduled operations.

The flight to this country was authorized Monday by the State Department. It marked the first time Soviet passenger planes had been authorized to land in the U. S.

Elderly Woman Is Held for Murder

A true bill has been returned against a 68-year old Monongahela woman accused of murder.

The August grand jury in Washington County indicted Mrs. Lena Trappin on a charge of murder, accessory before and after the fact in the death of Joseph Mancuso, 65-year-old Monongahela shoemaker.

Mrs. Trappin was taken into custody several days after Mancuso's body was found lying in a yard at the rear of her home. He had been strangled.

Ohio Freeway Work To Begin Sept. 5

COLUMBUS (UP) — Construction on the first section of the Ohio Freeway will begin Sept. 5.

Gov. C. William O'Neill and other dignitaries will take part in the ground breaking ceremones.

A bulldozer operated by the governor will bite into the earth on a farm two miles south of West Salem on Ohio 301. The site is about 12 miles northeast of Ashland.

Grading of the four mile construction section in Wayne County is scheduled to start immediately after the ceremonies.

Eventually, the 340 million dollar superhighway will link the Great Lakes and St.Lawrence Seaway with the Ohio River. Big cities on the route include Cleveland, Columbus and Cincinnati.

Among those scheduled to attend the ground breaking ceremonies are Cincinnati Mayor Charles P. Taft, Conneaut Mayor William A. Miller, and Ohio Wesleyan University President Arthur S. Flemming, chairman of the newly created Ohio Citizens Highway Development Committee.

The Highway Department will open bids on another six miles of Ohio Freeway construction Sept. 17. The stretch will be built in Delaware County.

The construction will start at a point midway between Alum Creek and Berkshire one mile north of U.S. 36. From there it will extend northeast across Kingston Township and end about one mile south of the Morrow County line.

Plans include three underpasses to carry Ohio 521 and county roads 34 and 65 over the superhighway. The four lane divided freeway will have a grassy center strip 84 feet wide.

U. S. Mediator Talks Contract In Trolley Feud

PITTSBURGH (UP)—A federal mediator met with Pittsburgh railways Co. officials today to review contract negotiations which remained stalled with a bus and trolley strike deadline only five days away.

Commissioner Harry Young held a similar session with union negotiators Monday after his arrival here in an effort to head off a threatened walkout by 2,200 bus and trolley operators.

Young, who helped settle a 90-day transit strike in Harrisburg two years ago, said his sessions with both sides were for exploratory purposes He hopes to get both sides in joint sessions again.

Company and union negotiators met for only a half an hour Monday and broke up after the company said it was not prepared to better its rejected offer of 10 cents an hour in a two - year pact. The union seeks raises totaling 36 cents an hour.

Officials of local institutions, such as hospitals, meanwhile began preparing for a possible walkout by readying emergency plans to get key personnel to their jobs.

Two Prisoners Back in Jail; Five Still Free

WAYNE, W. Va. (UP)—Two of seven prisoners who sawed their way out of the Wayne County jail here Monday were back behind bars today while the search for the remainder was concentrated in a rural area some 25 miles south of here.

One of the escapees—who had only two days left to serve on a drunk charge — was apprehended several hours after the break and a second was arrested Monday night while walking along a road near here.

Reports that some of the escapees had been seen in the Crum area in the extreme southern part of this rural county, which lies south of Huntington, led State Police and the sheriff's force to center their search there.

Arrested last night was Sollie Fuller, who had been awaiting transfer to the state penitentiary at Moundsville to serve a 1-to-10-year term for breaking and entering. He offered no resistance when apprehended by Wayne Police Chief Floyd Woodall and Constable Junior Ramey.

Gene Cisco of Kenova had been picked up by Ramey earlier in the day at Lavelette, some 15 miles north of here and five miles south of Huntington.

The other men were identified as William Gilbert, awaiting transfer to the penitentiary to serve a 1-to-10-year term for burglary; John F. Dowdy and Robert Runon, both sentenced to 12 months for hit and run; Roy Lee Marcum, awaiting grand jury action on armed robbery charges, and Jennings Bias, serving one year for non-support plus an additional six months for excaping last winter.

Delegates Want Assessing Jobs Out of Politics

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Delegates to the state Association of County Commissioners convention agreed today tax assessment jobs should be taken out of politics.

Participants in a tax assessment panel discussion voiced opinions that the locally-elected tax assessor is on his way out. They agreed his duties should be turned over to professionally qualified personnel.

The convention will act Wednesday on a resolution calling for a study of overlapping control and authority at various political levels. The resolution was introduced by John M. Walker, Allegheny County s Republican commissioner who proposed appointment of a special committee to draft a program redefining duties of townships, counties, borcughs, and the state government.

30,000 Cases of Asian Flu Reported in the U. S. at Present Time

WASHINGTON (UP) — A U.S. Public Health Service spokesman said today there have been about 30,000 cases of Asian flu in the United States to date with confirmed outbreaks in 20 states and the territory of Hawaii.

He said the 30,000 figure "probably is an underestimate."

In addition, suspected outbreaks of the new type of flu, not yet confirmed by laboratory tests, have been reported in nine other states and in Alaska, Dr. C. C. Dauer, public health statistical director, said.

He gave the report at the opening session of a special conference of health officers from all states and territories. The two-day conference was called by Surgeon General Leroy E. Burney to prepare for the nationwide epidemic of Asian flu which is expected to strike this fall or winter.

Burney warned the conference that there is "always a possibility" that the new virus will become virulent and produce a severe form of the disease.

Alert Public

So far, it has been mild and there has been no evidence of a growing severity. But, Burney said because the virus is "relatively unpredictable," health officials should be on guard for changes in the event of an epidemic.

"There is a remote possibility that the virulence may increase", he said. "But this seems particularly unlikely in view of the experience of other countries."

Burney told the health officers they should try to "alert the public without alarming the public about the impending epidemic."

"There is nothing to be hysterical about," he said. "The disease continues to be very mild with an extremely low mortality rate."

He said production of flu vaccine is running ahead of schedule and manufacturers now expect to exceed the original goal of 60 million doses by Feb. 1. But he gave no further details on output.

The Public Health Service said an estimated 30,000 persons already have been stricken with a "mild" Asian flu. Four deaths were attributed directly to the disease or to resulting complications.

Following the pattern in the Far East, the so-called "Asiatic" flu is expectea to attack 15 to 20 per cent of the population. All age groups will be affected, but the disease usually takes a higher toll on infants and older people.

Persons with chest or heart conditions are expected to be given a priority on vaccine shots. They are considered more susceptible and more liable to complications. President Eisenhower received his flu vaccination Monday.

Donora Route 837 Opened to Traffic

Route 837 between Donora and Fisher Heights has been opened to traffic after a four-month detour.

A bridge over the old Pittsburgh Railways line was removed and a fill made. The highway was also widened.

Construction Engineer A. R. Brady of Uniontown said the project is still not completed and he advised motorists to travel the unfinished portion of the highway with caution.

Moore, who has resigned as vice chancellor for the schools of the health professions.

Dr. Moore will become president of the Downstate Medical Center of the State University of New York.

"We are extremely fortunate in having this senior scholar and administrator in the field of health education serve as a consultant to us during this period when we shall all have to make major adjustments," Pitt Chancellor Edward H. Litchfield said.

What Comes from Policy by Pressure

RED CHINA has made the obvious response to the U. S. State Department's modification of policy to allow 24 American newsmen to enter China for the purpose of reporting directly from that country during a seven-month test period.

Nothing doing, says Peiping. Not unless the United States is willing to admit Chinese Communist reporters on a reciprocal basis.

And the Chinese Reds did not pass up the opportunity to score a telling propaganda hit.

"The United States," they say, "is used to lording it over others in the imperialist world and thinks it can send its correspondents to China just on the basis of its own unilateral decision, while at the same time, without the slightest sense of discourtesy, refusing reciprocal visas to Chinese correspondents."

This is what comes of making foreign policy on the basis of pressure from special interests. The State Department changed its stand in order to accomodate some vociferous big newspapers, magazines and broadcasters. And now it is confronted with a choice which is decidedly awkward.

Now the department must either go one step further in normalizing relations with a Communist regime with which we are nominally at war and which we do not recognize as a legitimate government. Or it must let the Chinese Reds go on telling the world that we "lord it over others" by expecting them to do things we won't do ourselves.

* * *

SOME Americans, like Senator Fulbright, Democrat of Arkansas, are willing to go ahead and let the Chinese Communist reporters come over. We already admit the correspondents of Tass, the Russian news agency, so what harm is there in having a few more?

But we had better think that over carefully, remembering that every person who comes to the United States from a Communist-ruled country, no matter in what capacity, is a Communist agent before he is anything else. A Communist correspondent is, in no true sense, the opposite number of an American correspondent operating without government direction under a free press.

It is our opinion that a segment of the news business did the nation no service when it pressured the State Department into a modification of its policy. The department was right the first time, and it should have stood its ground.

In the framework of a cold war, news coverage cannot be a separate and distinct consideration. It is dangerous to suppose that we can have normal relations with the Communists in one aspect of international life while waging a struggle for survival on other fronts. We doubt that the American people are so hungry for direct news from inside Red China that they are willing to give the Communists a chance to pose before the world as the champions of a phony and treacherous "coexistence".

John G. Check

THE CAREER of John G. Check could serve as a classic illustration of the trite but true claim that America is a "land of opportunity".

Mr. Check came to the United States in the great tide of immigration from Central Europe about the turn of the century, a penniless young man whose only assets were a pair of strong hands, a keen mind and a consuming ambition to accomplish things.

When he died on Saturday, he closed a life marked by outstanding business success, a long period of useful and honorable public service and the respect and admiration of his community.

"Land of opportunity"? Yes, and a citizen who recognized the opportunity and who had the will and the capacity to make the most of it.

It was a pity when chronic illness cut short Mr. Check's active work at middle age. Otherwise he would surely have enlarged upon the success and the contributions which he had already achieved.

But his grieving family has the consolation of his truly remarkable record.

One often hears the question: How did we ever get along without air conditioning? But we have yet to hear that question asked about television.

Politics, somebody said, can bring out either the worst or the best in a man. In other words, if he's a decent fellow to start with, it's quite possible he can remain one.

Merry-Go-Round—

Who Killed 1954 Probe Of Hoffa?

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — There would be no Hoffa headlines, no TV sets turned on to the Senate Rackets Committee, no sure bet that Jimmy Hoffa will be next president of the Teamsters, if it hadn't been for a quirk of fate in Michigan four years ago.

Mr. Pearson

Four years ago Hoffa was before another congressional committee. Much of the same information was being exposed about his personal loans, his race track, his police record, his deals with friends who benefited from union welfare funds, his attempts to muscle in on the juke box business, parking lots, and other enterprises far removed from the Teamsters.

Then suddenly, the hearing was called off. It was called off by very high-up Republicans, and many signs pointed to Arthur Summerfield, now Postmaster General and a power in Michigan politics. He now denies this. But, in return, Hoffa supported Sen. Homer Ferguson, Republican, for re-election, later supported Mayor Albert Cobo, Republican, for governor against Democratic Gov. "Soapy" Williams.

The mysterious question mark is: who worked out the deal to save Hoffa? Who called off the congressional dogs? If that probe had proceeded, Hoffa might not be the power he is today.

The question has met with denials all over the place. But here is what Republican congressmen said at the time they were stopped dead in their tracks from investigating Hoffa:

Who Killed the Probe?

Rep. Clare Hoffman of Michigan made a dozen speeches pointing the finger at unnamed high-up Republicans

On Jan. 19, 1954 he said: "It takes courage sometimes to try to probe the racketeers in your own home city . . . Mr. Hoffa testified under oath that his local had a million dollars in the treasury and that they had given him — Hoffa — authority to spend such part of that million in elections as he desires.

"In my own committee I was stripped of any authority to continue these investigations, except for a period of 60 days in two localities. Why?"

On Jan. 21, 1954 Hoffman continued: "I have been warned that retaliatory action would be taken if I investigated Teamster racketeers."

On Feb. 3, Hoffman again complained that his committee had been "liquidated." "They gave me no reason for such action."

On Feb. 23, Hoffman protested: "The fact of the matter is they tried to cut my throat . . . We were getting along all right exposing the racketeers and the extortionists, but we got too close to some politically high influential gentlemen. We were stepping on their toes. They said, 'cut that old man Hoffman off.'"

On March 24, Hoffman, still anxious to investigate Hoffa, charged that his committee had been "killed" and that this had encouraged racketeering and extortion.

In Detroit, as hearings suddenly folded, Congressman Wint Smith of Kansas looked at the ceiling and said: "The pressure comes from so high that I can't even discuss it."

Said Committee Counsel William F. McKenna: "We were silenced before we could make public certain important financial-legal aspects of the Teamsters operations."

Just who did the silencing is something the McClellan Committee should investigate. But it won't. Too many senators on his committee or their friends might be involved.

Ugly Highways

Sen. Chapman Revercomb of West Virginia cast the tie-breaking vote in the Senate Public Works Committee in favor of Madison Avenue's desire to clutter up the new federal highway system with billboards.

Voting with Revercomb were his fellow Republicans, Senators Martin of Pennsylvania, Kuchel of California, and Hruska of Nebraska; also Democratic Senators Kerr of Oklahoma, McNamara of Michigan, and Scott of North Carolina.

Before Revercomb cast his tie-breaking ballot, he pleaded with committee members to lay the bill on the table so he wouldn't have to vote. This made Sens. Richard Neuberger (D., Ore.) and Albert Gore (D., Tenn.) furious.

"You want to have your cake and eat it, too," protested Neuberger at Revercomb. "You want to kill the anti-billboard bill, but you also want to be able to go home and tell the ladies in the garden club and the sportsmen in the outdoor club that we can revive the bill next year.

"I agree with Senator Gore that now is the time to act," insisted Neuberger. He explained that once the roads are built and the billboards are erected, it will be too late to beautify the federal highways.

Our Disarmament Dilemma

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

Two events this past week sharpen the dilemma the United States faces in the London disarmament talks.

First, we are more than doubling our offer to Moscoe — a 24-month, instead of a 10-month, suspension of all nuclear tests — to persuade the Soviets to accept a first-step agreement on arms reduction.

Mr. Drummond

The objective is to see if a halt in the arms race will decrease the tensions of the cold war.

Simultaneously with these negotiations, the Soviet Union is acting to increase the tensions of the cold war by trying to gain control of strategic Syria in the Middle East — buying it with armaments and subverting its military leaders.

The dilemma is this: Is a disarmament agreement, if it can be reached, a safe means of attempting to cut back the tensions of the cold war? Or, will any disarmament at this stage simply make it easier for the Kremlin to enlarge the tensions of the cold war to the mounting disadvantage of the West?

Proposal Makes Sense

The new Allied disarmament proposal makes sense in itself. We are simply saying that if the Soviets will accept some valid degree of open skies-ground inspection, agree to some cuts in conventional arms and work out during the next year nuclear inspection which would permit a ban on the production of nuclear weapons, we would be prepared to accept now a two-year halt in testing. If agreement on inspection measures could not be achieved so as to allow a cease-production on nuclear weapons, the suspension of tests would be called off after two years.

We need to bear in mind that suspending nuclear tests has little or nothing to do with bringing about disarmament. Only an end to the production of nuclear weapons, not an end to testing them, can result in any reduction in the competitive arms race.

The fact that thus far the Kremlin has concentrated its proposals and its propaganda almost exclusively upon trying to end only testing has led many people to the conclusion that the Soviet Union has no real desire to achieve a disarmament agreement.

Health Measure

Because of the potential danger of radioactive fall-out from the tests, it would be fair to say that a suspension of the tests would be a kind of limited health agreement. It certainly wouldn't be a disarmament agreement.

This is why the latest Allied proposal in London — to accept a two-year ban on testing which will last longer only if Moscow is willing to agree within a year to an inspectable ban on the production of nuclear weapons — will almost certainly be the deciding test whether the disarmament talks break down soon or go on to something produitive.

It seems clear by now that Moscow has no desire to reduce the tensions of the cold war through disarmament. It may want a little disarmament in order to redure the cost of carrying on its aggressive foreign policy. As illustrated by the developing pro-Soviet coup in Syria, it is showing every determination to deepen and extend the area of the cold war. Therefore, we must weigh every aspect of disarmament as it affects the capacity of the West to resist and counter the still expanding efforts of the Soviet Union to thrust its control into new areas vital to the defenseo f the free world.

Big Soviet Gain

Syria's acceptance of the Kremlin's blandishments — the preface to Kremlin domination — is a major Soviet gain. At this point there seems little we can do to stop it. It was never within the scope of the Eisenhower Doctrine to prevent a nation from acquiescing to its own subversion. It does not seem open to the United States to defend a nation unwilling to defend itself or so blinded by nationalism that it is not aware of its own peril.

At the moment the situation is getting worse. Moscow has an armlock on Egypt. It nearly succeeded in getting a hold on Jordan. For the present it has a pliant Syria in its reach.

I don't see how we can escape the conclusion that, even if Moscow doesn't want war, it doesn't want peace — and act accordingly.

Wisconsin's Election Holds National Interest

By RAYMOND LAHR

WASHINGTON (UP) — Wisconsin's special Senate election today gives national political parties their first chance to test political wind directions since the Eisenhower landslide 10 months ago.

Mr. Lahr

The prize is the vacant Senate seat of the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, the controversial figure who held it for almost 11 years.

The Republicans expect to win but seem a little nervous. The Democrats are hopeful but recognize that they are underdogs in normally Republican Wisconsin.

Although the state GOP organization tends to be conservative, the Republican nominee is an Eisenhower Republican, former Gov. Walter J. Kohler. The Democratic candidate is William Proxmire from the liberal wing of his party — a thrice-defeated nominee for governor who once lost to Kohler by a margin of 35,000 votes.

Politicians Will Sniff

Whatever the result, the trend-hunters in both parties will go to work with slide rules. In Wisconsin last year, Sen. Alexander Wiley, another Eisenhower Republican, was reelected with 58 per cent of a total vote of 1,523,356 while President Eisenhower was also sweeping the state.

Forecasts reaching the party managers here estimate a much smaller vote Tuesday — in the neighborhood of 600,000. Even that turnout would be higher than was expected a few weeks ago.

One source of Republican worry is the independent candidacy of Howard H. Boyle Jr., a conservative Republican, who figures to subtract from Kohler's vote. GOP leaders are conceding him about 20,000 votes.

Republicans are also nervous about the farm vote in the northwestern part of the state, which will be watched closely by the Democrats, too. In that area four years ago, the Democrats broke the Republican hold on the 9th Congressional seat and elected Rep. Lester R. Johnson, who has twice been reelected.

Issues At Stake

Democrats also will be wondering whether there is any political payoff in their efforts to develop an issue from inflation and the rising cost of living. They have doubts, however, that the issue was exploited in Wisconsin to the extent that it will be tried in some states in the 1958 congressional elections.

The result Tuesday can have much impact on the Senate where there are now 49 Democrats, 46 Republicans and one vacancy.

A Proxmire victory would provide some insurance against the Democrats losing control before the 1958 elections. A Kohler victory would put the GOP in position to take control if a Democratic senator should die in a state with a Republican governor who could fill the vacancy by appointment.

Republicans have the tie-breaking vote of Vice President Richard M. Nixon to organize the Senate should their membership rise to 48.

The Woman's View—

Frozen Food People Hear from the Cooks

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UP) —Woman's insatiable curiosity leads her to read the recipes on food packages. But it doesn't always tease her into trying them.

Matter of fact, it sometimes just sets her to nagging the food industry.

One of the more persistent complaints is against the manufacturer's estimate of the number of servings in the package, compared with a family's consumption.

Gay Pauley

"Dr. Birdseye, bless him, he must have had a bird's appetite," said one woman. She was one of 318 housewives involved in a recipe study, results of which were released today, and was referring to the man who pioneered the frozen foods industry. His name still is the label on products from one major packager.

Interesting Comments

Said another cook, whose husband is a truck dispatcher:

"My fellow, when he passes his plate and I tell him there is no more, he says, 'What are we operating, a tea room or something?'"

The New York industrial design firm of Nesbitt Associates did the study to determine how cooking instructions on packages rate with the housewife If talked with women, 21 to 55 years of age, in three suburban New York areas. One third of the women not only did all their housework but also held either full or part-time jobs.

Saul Nesbitt, director of the firm, said because many housewives distrust manufacturers' count on servings, they just buy double (and I doubt if the manufacturers complain about this).

But the women generally like the idea of recipes on packages. Most of them read them—only 46 of the 318 said they rarely noticed the cooking tips.

"Reading macaroni packages is the only way I've learned how to make lasagna and chicken tetrazini," said one bride.

Some Save Recipes

One third of the women said they save the recipes for their own cooking notebooks. Sixty-nine didn't trust the manufacturers' test kitchens—they use their own ideas.

Some 50 per cent complained they wished the recipes appeared in larger or at least more legible print.

Chilliest reaction concerned frozen food packaging. More than half the women said the amount of water suggested was not sufficient.

"I burn more frozen vegetables than anything else," said three score of the 318.

They also protested to the way the recipes were carried on frozen packages. "The recipes are mutilated and impossible to read by the time you've taken off the outer wrapper," said one woman.

Nesbitt believes the 318 women represented a pretty good "pilot study." But he said he'd happily listen to all further complaints.

So let's go, ladies.

Donor's 'Superman' Ineligible

Donora's dream of a super-duper backfield which changed when Coach Jimmy Russell decided to switch "Gunboat" Grogan, the all-Star from Detroit to a tackle post has now completely disappeared with the announcement by Dr. Michael Herk, Donora principal that the WPIAL Football Commitee has ruled the 240-pounder ineligible due to the semester residence ruling . . . Charleroi's grid squad has named end Ollie Payne and guard Fred Yuss co-captains of the 1957 Cougar team succeeding Myron Pottios and Billy Pentz, now Notre Dame-bound. Charleroi has elected co-captains ever since Rab Currie has coached there, which is 10 years . . . Incidentally Yuss will be lost to the Red and Black for at least three weeks due to a shoulder separation suffered in practice.

He has high-scoring Ron Saxe, All-Catholic League ace from St. George's in Pittsburgh, who scored 1,065 points during his high school career all set for joining the Ohioans in this season. He goes 6-2 . . . A poll of the ten top coaches in the East found Penn State and not Pitt at the top of the list as the choice for top Eastern team this coming season . . . Those football magazines now on the newsstands had better get together on Pitt's location, one lists the Panthers as top team in the east, another as best of the Midwest independents.

Janie Galaski Avid 'Hound Fan

One of the most avid followers of the Monessen Greyhounds is nine-year-old Janie Galaski, daughter of local police officer Ed Galaski. She never misses a practice session or a game. Whenever a 'Hound player goes down with an injury Janie dashes to her home across the street from the Stadium and returns with ice cubes to apply to the hurt . . . Her brother Ed, who plays for former Greyhound Johnny Popovich at Waynesburg College, has been working out at the stadium along with Skeeter Danser, another Yellowjacket gridder. They were missed in the listing of those gridders getting in their early "in shape" licks last week . . . Coach Armand Niccolai took pity on the 'Hounds Friday when he gave them a break from the heat by drilling them in shorts in the afternoon.

Brownies to Name Coach This Week

Brownsville's school board expects to name its new basketball tutor and assistant football coach this week. The cage post was vacated when Alex Barantovich, grid mentor decided that one sport was enough for him to handle . . . Connellsville's Bob Cunningham, most valuable gridder in the Jaycee All-Star tilt earlier this month, is now again rumored headed for Pitt. He was first on his way to the Panthers, then to Penn State, back to Pitt and then to State again. But its Pitt this time, according to Bob Prince, Pirate broadcaster, who gave us the tip he got from Jack Wiley, Pitt assistant coach who attended Friday night's Pitt-Cincinnati game accompanied by Cunningham and joined Rapid Robert in the press box.

Fraley Mounts Horse Arcaro Couldn't Ride

By OSCAR FRALEY

CAPE HAITIAN, Haiti (UP) — I've got news today for jockey Eddie Arcaro and mile champion Derek Ibbotson.

High in the coffee and banana sprinkled mountains of northern Haiti, I have just made the blistering acquaintance of a horse that even Arcaro couldn't ride. And part of the parlay was a pony boy who can run so fast and so long that he'd make the demon Derek look like a turtle with the gout.

You'd have to see both of 'em to believe it, yet these two must rank as all-time greats in the improvement of anybody's breed.

I've got to think that even Ben Hur would have backed off from this nag on which they boosted me to ride up to Henry Christophe's ancient citadel, a fort some 3,000 feet up on the crest of a mountain.

Shades Of Black Beauty

The horse is a moth-eaten hayburner about two hands higher than a Maltese kitten. In the stud book it would have to read "by Army tank out of Mountain Goat." I sneered when I sat down to ride, figuring I'd wind up carrying this jackrabbit, but the sneer went along with where I sit down and don't tell me tales about Man O' War. This one had to be the gamest cuss since Black Beauty.

For three hours he toted my limp carcass up a winding, rock-strewn path which, in spots, was like the wall of a stucco house. So Arcaro can fall about six feet. One misstep on those loose rocks and it would have been what seemed like six miles — straight down. My gallant steed, whose name as near as I could make out was French for heliotrope, had no such odor, but while he kicked a few rocks over the edge here and there the fact that I'm able to write this on a fine old Haitian mantle piece is proof that he was sure-footed.

Yet even more amazing to a man who surely will never ride again and, possibly, may never be able to walk, was the running feats of the pony boy. He was a 15-year-old about half as big as a midget but with a smile twice as large as the mountain, who informed me in the cape's French patois that his name was Anthony and everything was "hokay, fine."

His job was to boost the unfortunate rider on and off the pony, switch it into high gear when it slowed down for a mere 135-degree grade and gallop on ahead in his bare feet just to let you know that all was "hokay, fine." This kid never stopped running until he reached the top of that 3,000-foot mountain and, had you gone over the edge, you just knew that he'd be waiting at the bottom with a mattress to cushion your fall.

PNA, Cro-Ams in CSL Finals

Myfords Go Out With 8-1 Defeat

PNA made it to the final round of the City Softball League playoffs following an 8-1 decision over Myfords last night, the sixth straight win for the PNA entry, two at the end of the regular season and two over the Ravens and Myfords in playoff competition.

The winners now go against first place Cro-Ams at Ninth Street Park tonight in the opener of a five-game series at 6 o'clock.

Paul Petrusky's five-hit hurling turned the trick last night.

His mates backed him when they tallied twice in the first inning as leadoff batter Ed Malush walked, went to second on a sacrifice bunt moved to third on fielder's choice and Joe Gladys walked. Petrusky then aided his own cause with a single to score Malush with Gladys going to third from where George Lovich drove Gladys home.

Myford's lone run came in the second inning on an error and two singles.

PNA scored six more times in the fourth with two outs. Myfords committed an error on an ordinarily easy play, which coupled with four singles and two additional errors shoved the winners too far out in front to catch.

Petrusky walked only one batter. Skowronski, Petrusky, Lovich and Frank Anders had two hits each for PNA while Tony Turcaso with two singles and Andy Lenio with a double paced the losers.

Two Cro-Ams stars will probably be missing tonight at Stelio Telegraphis has been inducted into the U. S. Army and Steve Rockovich's presence is doubtful. Thus "Stush" Nickolich and "Binks" Adamczyk will take care of the hurling duties.

Charleroi Evens MVL Series With 10-8 Win

Charleroi came charging back in the Mon Valley League playoffs last night to even the series with New Eagle at 2-2 with a 10-8 slugfest win over Frank Furiga's lads.

New Eagle had won two in a row after dropping the opener to the Merchants.

Freddy Uhlman was the winning hurler last night at New Eagle's Race Track Field but neither he nor New Eagle starter Manny Gayhart were around at the end of the game. Tony Segzda relieved Gayhart, Bob Gondos and Joe Reale taking over for Gayhart.

It was far from a pitcher's duel as Charleroi scored in every inning but the fifth and seventh and New Eagle tallied five in the fifth and three in the third. The Merchants garnered 11 hits, the Furigamen 10.

George Zuraw tripled for the Merchants for the biggest blow of the game, Johnny Bewick, Paul Lazzari and Billy Majeski cracking out two-baggers for the only other extra base blows. Bewick's for the winners, the latter two for Charleroi.

Uhlman fanned five but walked seven batters

Action continues tonight in the fifth game of the series at Fayette City beginning at 5:45 o'clock.

Tomorrow night they play at New Eagle as the series appears to be going down to the wire.

CLEVELAND (UP)—Washington and Kansas City fans will have to wait until next year.

The National Polo Open of baseball is played the first week in October.

Golfers Battle For U. S Amateur Tourney Berths

NEW YORK (UP) — With the odds stacked high against them, 1,561 golfers in 32 cities battle it out today for the 169 available berths in the U.S. Amateur championship.

A field of 200 will compete in the championship flight at Brookline, Mass., Sept. 9-14. However, 31 players qualified automatically, including former champions and members of the U S and British Walker Cup teams.

The odds against qualifying in the 36-hole sectional rounds were estimated at about 9-1.

Among the former champions who entered this year's tournament were Dick Chapman of Pinehurst, N C. (1940), Willie Turnesa of Elmsford, N Y., (1938-1948) Jesse Guilford of Boston (1921), and Chick Evans of Chicago (1916-1920).

A new champion will be crowned this year inasmuch as defending titleholder Harvie Ward is serving a one-year suspension for violation of the amateur rule on expense money.

Donora Wins 9-0 In PONY World Series Opener

Donora copped the PONY World Series opener yesterday with ease as ace hurler Chuck Guifrida blanked LeMesa, Calif., 9-0, on a two-hitter before 4,500 fans at Washington's PONY Field.

Guifrida also hit two three-run homers to help his own cause and struck out 11 of the 21 batters he faced.

Ft. Wayne, Idn., and Mywood, Ill., meet at noon, with LaMesa facing Paducah, Ky., at 2 o'clock on the losers side of the bracket in the double elimination tournament. Donora meets Waltham, Mass., at 6 o'clock and Miami, Fla., takes on Lufkin, Tex., at 8 o'clock in the winners' bracket.

The only hit off Guifrida was an infield single by Edmund Tucker. Guifrida didn't allow a ball to be hit out of the infield.

Another "Donora touch" to the series was the throwing out of the first ball to open the series by Donora's favorite son, Stan Musial, who tossed the ball to Joe E. Brown, president of the PONY League.

Thurman Replaces Sidelined Bell

PHILADELPHIA (UP) — Bob Thurman will report to the Cincinnati Redlegs here tonight as a replacement for outfielder Gus Bell, out for the rest of the season with a broken ankle.

Thurman, who shined as a pinch-hitter for the Redlegs earlier this season, was recalled from Seattle Monday after X-rays revealed a small bone fracture in Bell's right ankle.

The slugging center - fielder suffered the injury while attempting to stretch a double into a triple in the eighth inning of Saturday's 4-1 loss to the Pirates.

The Redlegs asked waivers on pitcher Vincente Amor to make room for Thurman.

Niccolai Starts Rebuilding Job; Only 8 Lettermen

Monessen High grid mentor Armand Niccolai today named the players who have impressed the coaches somewhat as the 1957 practice drills move into the second week.

Stressing that all jobs were "still open" the Greyhound coach stated that these boys I've mentioned have shown some promise at filling the gaps left by last year's graduation but others may show their mettle this week."

At the ends "Nick" says Dennis O'Toole, 166-pound senior and Steve Burns, 160-pound junior have shown well thus far as had George Guiberdanche, 185-pound junior until sidelined with a stomach ailment. Another terminal showing promise is a transfer student from Hubbard, O., Ken Walters, an excellent pass receiver but only tipping the scales at 125.

Big Ed Allen, who is over the 250 mark, and James Aldridge, 168, a senior letterman holdover, have been doing a yoeman like job at tackle.

Charles Chester, a junior and Wendell Osborne, a sophomore, weighing 184, have been in the thick of things at guard post during the drills. Vince Pascarella has also been a steady performer at guard.

Quarterback Slot

Handling the ball at the quarterback slot is returning letterman Dan Barton, followed by Carl Payne, a 165-pound junior, who is also impressive with Brian Laszewsky, a small 125-pound sophomore exhibiting unusual passing ability. Barton will handle the punting chores, Niccolai stated.

Halfback assignments thus far have gone to Ken Bronson, junior letterman, who shows speed and elusiveness, and Jimmy Lewitsky, also fast of foot and Ed Fayak, a 150-pound senior, all at left half. On the other side of the backfield, at right halfback, Niccolai has liked the looks of Joe Karbowsky, another senior letterwinner, with his jack-of-all-trades Paul Tobacco, 160-pound senior "M" winner, who plays halfback, fullback and an end post, in the thick of the right half argument.

Fullback chores thus far have been handled by Carl Rattay, 180-pound junior letterman, who is hobbled from a thigh injury, and Andy Carollo, a sophomore with lots of promise as is Richard Bass, another sophomore.

"We're drilling on fundamentals until the assignments are set," says "Nick". "We are working everything together in planning against the many types of defenses now employed by various teams," he added, in pointing out that "the days of only a couple of defenses is past". "Everyone is a defense specialist today and you have to be prepared for any type," the 'Hound mentor concluded.

Drills have moved into the Stadium from the Stadium Annex.

'Hound Season Ducat Sale Opens Tomorrow

Season tickets for Monessen's five home games go on sale officially tomorrow but Faculty Manager of Athletics Armand Mori announced today that he will be available at MU 4-3353 tonight between 7 and 10 o'clock if any one desires to make a purchase.

One of the most attractive home cards in years is offered the local fans this season with Uniontown here on September 27, Brownsville on October 11, Redstone on October 18, Johnstown on Oct. 25 and Duquesne on November 7.

Mori reminded 1956 season ticket holders that they have the option of purchasing the same reserved seats this season. He said there are many good seats available but advised early purchases.

"Why doesn't he call?"

Every day, all over America, people who are expected home never get there . . . because death on the highway intervenes!

You've waited up for someone. Everybody has. So you know the relief you feel when he finally does come home—or when he calls to say that everything's all right.

But imagine, if you can, waiting and never hearing. Or picking up the phone to hear a stranger's voice.

Last year, 40,000 American families had to suffer this torture. For that's the number of men, women and children who were wiped out in traffic accidents during 1956.

Traffic accidents can be prevented—if you do something about safety now! Won't you help?

BACK THE ATTACK ON TRAFFIC ACCIDENTS

Here's how you can help stop traffic tragedies:

1. Drive safely and courteously yourself. Observe speed limits and warning-signs. Where traffic laws are obeyed, deaths go DOWN!
2. Insist on strict enforcement of all traffic laws. Traffic regulations work for you, not against you. Where traffic laws are strictly enforced, deaths go DOWN!

DOCTORING YOUR GOLF

By CARY MIDDLECOFF

Right Posture

Many topped shots result from what is known as "raising up." The player crouches over the ball at the start of his stroke — often exaggerating the crouch so as to get down to the ball to avoid topping — and then straightens up as he comes into the ball on the downswing. This is just another case in golf where overdoing the effort to avoid a fault boomerangs back into that same fault — topping.

The correct posture for starting a shot (the address position) is fairly erect. The back should be straight; the knees are flexed. The posterior protrudes slightly, as if you were about to sit down on a high stool. The neck is bent to permit you to look down on the ball — not at the back of the ball.

Proper posture can do wonders for your overall swing. And you can forget all about the frustrating error known as topping.

Dodgers May Stay In Ol' New York

NEW YORK (UP)—City officials expressed hope today that the Brooklyn Dodgers' new offer to build their own ballpark may keep the team in Brooklyn — but they were studying carefully the "strings" attached to the offer.

Dodger President Walter O'Malley made the offer Monday at a special meeting with Deputy Mayor John J. Theobald and other officials.

The offer boiled down to this: Forget about building a city-owned sports arena in Brooklyn. Just condemn the land there; sell it to us at a "common sense" price; and we'll build our own ballpark.

Immediate official reaction was mixed. One official declared that O'Malley's move made "things look brighter in our plan to keep the Dodgers here." Another insisted that O'Malley was asking for something that is "impossible and he knows it."

Tri-State PGA Golfers Tee Off

PITTSBURGH (UP) — A field of about 50 golfers, including defending champion Mike Pavella and eight former champions, teed off today in the 27th annual Tri-State PGA tournament at Shannopin Country Club.

The tournament calls for 18 hole rounds today, Wednesday and Thursday.

Pavella, of Nemacolin Country Club also won the tournament in 1951 and 1954.

Norris' Illness May Revive Bout Of Sugar-Basilio

NEW YORK (UP)—The corned beef sandwiches that felled promoter Jim Norris may cause a quick announcement that the million-dollar Ray Robinson - Carmen Basilio fight is on again.

"Let's do it for Jim!" was the melodramatic slogan of both sides in the dispute today as settlement negotiations were resumed, while multi-millionaire Norris lay in St Clare's Hospital recovering from an acute attack of food poisoning

Middleweight champion Robinson, who was warned by the N.Y State Athletic Commission to go through with the fight or risk having his title vacated, said, "I'm hopeful we can settle things today and cheer up Jim; nothing's so important right now as his welfare."

Norris, 50, suffered a heart attack seven years ago; and there is an old lesion (scar) on one of the arteries although electro-cardiograms disclosed no new heart damage.

He was stricken by the "acute enteritis" Monday night at the very hour he had been scheduled to preside over a surprise conference at his office in Madison Square Garden.

Steelers Sign Offensive End

OLEAN, N.Y. (UP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers, losers in two preseason exhibition football games, sought to strengthen their scoring punch today by picking up offensive end Dick Booker, former Lincoln University player who served last season with the Detroit Lions.

The Steeler organization signed Booker on the recommendation of assistant coach Harry Gilmer, who played with the former Lincoln ace on the Lions last year.

While adding an offensive end, the Steelers lost a defensive end. John Stock, Bridgeville, Pa, decided to call it quits and return to his home to enter business. Stock, of Pitt, played part of last season but was handicapped by injuries.

Armstrong in Win Over Rudy Sawyer

NEW YORK (UP)—Gene Armstrong, unbeaten middleweight of Elizabeth, N.J., gets a TV fight with Sugar Hart of Philadelphia at St. Nicholas Arena, Sept. 16, for scoring his 10th straight victory Monday night at St. Nick's.

Promoter Teddy Brenner announced the match today.

Armstrong, an underdog at 7-5, won a unanimous decision over Rudy Sawyer of New York in their TV 10-rounder before 1,484. Gene out-boxed and out-fought the favorite, who suffered his first defeat in 11 professional bouts.

The winner weighed 151 pounds, Sawyer, 148.

Ted Takes Two-Point Lead Over Mantle

DETROIT (UP)—Ted Williams clung to a two-point lead over Mickey Mantle in the hot American League batting race today as the result of a standoff in their latest clash.

Red Sox slugger Williams and Yankee blaster Mantle each had two hits in four at-bats in games Monday, each gaining one percentage point — Williams to .379 and Mantle to .377.

That means the lead could change hands tonight if Williams has a poor night here against the Detroit Tigers and Mantle has a good night in Chicago against the White Sox.

Parker Hints at Steeler Head Job

DETROIT (UP)—Buddy Parker wasn't talking much today about his coaching prospects in the National Football League, but he did admit he "could be" in line for a job with the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Rumors and published reports have been circulating that Parker would not be long in finding a new job after he suddenly quit as head coach of the Detroit Lions.

Parker denied one report last week end which said he would be going to Baltimore to replace the Colts' head coach, Weeb Ewbank.

On the subject of a possible move to Pittsburgh, Parker refused to elaborate further after admitting he "could be" in line for the coaching post. "I'd rather say nothing about it," he added.

Lose Five Games out Of Seven

By JOHN GRIFFIN

The New York Yankees, badly mauled by that vicious Detroit Tiger, came stumbling into Chicago tonight to give the White Sox their golden opportunity of 1957.

If the Yankees ever were ready to be "taken," they are now.

Their 5-2 drubbing by the Tigers Monday, thanks to Al Kaline's three-run homer, was their fifth loss in the last seven games; their league lead over the Sox now is down to 3½ games—lowest point since Aug. 1; and their pitching isn't ready for the big three-game series opening under the Chicago arcs tonight.

Instead of having an Allie Reynolds ready to hurl, manager Casey Stengel is calling Art Ditmar, last year the losingest pitcher in the league, out of the bullpen to face either Jim Wilson or Gerry Staley. Out of action are ace lefties Whitey Ford and Bobby Shantz and the rest of the Yank mound corps is wobbling.

Six-Game Streak

The White Sox, riding a six-game winning streak, were idle Monday while the Tigers were beating the Yankees for the second straight day. Mickey Mantle slugged his 33rd homer in the first inning with a mate aboard to put New York ahead, 2-0, but Frank Lary shut out the league leaders the rest of the way.

Kaline slammed his 17th homer of the year in the first inning with two on to put Detroit ahead to stay and give him 13 runs-batted-in during the last four games. Harvey Kuenn singled home another Tiger run in the second and Charley Maxwell's sacrifice fly delivered the final tally in the fifth.

If the White Sox can sweep all three games in the series starting tonight, they still will be a half-game behind the Yankees. But they'll be all even in the only place baseball men say is important—the lost column.

The Milwaukee Braves' headlong rush toward the National League pennant was slowed Monday night when they dropped a 4-3 decision to the Phillies, cutting their lead to seven games over idle St. Louis and Brooklyn.

Braves Rally

The Braves rallied from a 3-1 deficit to tie the score with two unearned runs in the eighth inning with the help of Chico Fernandez' error. But the Phils loaded the bases against reliever Ernie Johnson with one out in the ninth and then pinch-hitter Ron Northey singled to score Ted Kazanski with the winning run. Rookie Dick Farrell was the winner in relief.

In the only other games scheduled Monday, the New York Giants trounced the Cincinnati Redlegs, 17-3, and the Boston Red Sox crushed Kansas City, 16-0.

Home runs by Danny O'Connell and Hank Sauer led the Giants' 19-hit attack as they handed the Redlegs their 13th loss in the last 14 games.

A 10-run seventh inning featured the Red Sox' win with four homers in that big frame — by Frank Malzone, Norm Zauchin, Ted Lepcio, and Jimmy Piersall. Malzone hit another homer, plus a double and single, to lead the Sox' 19-hit assault.

Big Klu Claims He's Not Quitting

NEW YORK (UP) — Pain-wracked Ted Kluszewski insisted today he's "not quitting."

The big Cincinnati first baseman is only a part-time performer now because of a slipped disc in his spine but he says he isn't ready to hang up his mitt yet.

"Maybe I'll undergo an operation this winter," he said. "I haven't really decided what I'll do about the back. But I'm not going to quit baseball. My back still bothers me although it isn't nearly as bad as it was during the spring."

Kluszewski, who will be 33 next month, takes numerous pills every day to keep the pain in his back from becoming unbearable

"Those pills are the things that keep me going," said the muscular Redleg veteran, who was once among the most feared sluggers in the National League.

So far this season, big Klu has been in only 58 games for Cincinnati and in many of them he appeared solely as a pinch hitter.

ACC on TV

NEW YORK (UP) — Ten Atlantic Coast Conference basketball games during the 1957-58 season will be televised on a regional basis by Sports Network, Inc. All the TV games will be played on Saturday afternoons, starting with the North Carolina vs Clemson game at Chapel Hill, N.C., Dec. 7

Bucs-Cards to Finish Tilt, Play Full Game; Stan in Token Show

PITTSBURGH (UP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates and the St. Louis Cardinals will put two final scores in the National League record books tonight and one is virtually certain to be a Cardinal victory.

Before playing a regularly scheduled night game, the teams will finish out a game which was suspended July 21 because of the Sunday curfew law. The Cardinals will be at bat with the score, 11-2, in their favor and one out in the ninth when the interrupted game resumes.

In the regular contest, Bob Friend, (9-16) will start for the Pirates against the Cardinals' Von McDaniel, the 18-year-old bonus sensation who has won seven while losing three since joining St. Louis in June.

Cardinal manager Fred Hutchinson said Stan Musial will appear in the one inning remaining of the suspended game to technically stretch his consecutive games played streak to 895 games. When the game was started June 21, as the second of a doubleheader, Musial sat it out, thus ending his string at 862 games, a National League record.

Hutchinson said Musial's appearance in the final inning would fill the gap in the streak.

Arden Downs Track Closes Season Tonight

Washington Raceway, a member of the Pittsburgh Racing Association, closes out its 1957 schedule tonight with its regular seven-event program, the only races scheduled in the area tonight.

And Joe Mihalic of Harrison City, who has climbed into fourth place in the PRA standings during the past few weeks, is hopeful of moving up toward third place. He's had a lot of good races on the track, including a victory in the 50-lap championship race recently.

Mihalic at present is trailing Lee Stover of Pittsburgh by 25 points, and easily could pick up 30 points with a victory in the feature event tonight, providing he and Stover get an even break in the preliminary races.

There will be a team race between policemen and firemen at Green Valley Raceway, Mt Nebo, Wednesday night. Any policeman or fireman who wants to drive will be "loaned" a car by the professional drivers, and all of them will be admitted free if in uniform or by producing identification.

Thursday night the PRA drivers return to Heidelberg Raceway, and Friday there will be races again at Green Valley.

New Hunting Licenses Sent Issuing Agents

The Department of Revenue has advised that 1957 hunting licenses have been sent to all county treasurers and other issuing agents. The licenses were placed on sale by the Department of Revenue, at Harrisburg, yesterday, August 26, and they should be available, anywhere in the state, by the first day of September.

The 1956 Pennsylvania hunting license period ends August 31. Beginning September 1 a 1957 hunting license must be owned and properly worn in the lawful hunting or trapping of any wild bird or animal found in the Commonwealth.

A person who applies for an archery license, which is required of bow and arrow hunters in the October season, must first own a 1957 Pennsylvania hunting license. Archery license applications will soon be available from issuing agents. However, through a 1957 change in the law, archery licenses may also be obtained from county treasurers this year. Purchased from a county treasurer the cost is $2.15; from the Department of Revenue, Harrisburg, the cost is $2.00.

A new Legislative Act provides that farm occupants may hunt for deer with bow and arrow during the exclusive archery season without a license on lands upon which they reside and, with the written consent of the owner or lessee, on privately-owned lands immediately adjacent.

During the 1957 bow and arrow season, October 5 to 12, inclusive, an archer will not be required to own an anterless deer license, though deer of either sex may be taken by bowmen in that separate season.

UNUSUAL DEER —

On July 21 a lady living in Abington Township, Montgomery County, complained to Game Protector Donald Croft that deer were ruining her small truck patch. "On the previous night," says Croft, "the lady counted 42 of the animals in her garden. This would not be so unusual in real deer country, but Abington Township adjoins the Philadelphia County-City borderline. The total area of this Township is less than 15 square miles, and the human population numbers over 30,000. At the right time a person can count, in one locality in the Township, between 60 and 80 deer in less than one hour."

CHEIF NAMED —

The Game Commission has named Glenn L. Bowers as its Chief of the Division of Research. The appointee replaces Roger M. Latham, who recently left the agency to become the outdoor editor of The Pittsburgh Press.

The new research head is a native of York, Pa. His employment by the Commission, as a field biologist, began August 16, 1948. Wildlife studies he has conducted since then have been on cottontail rabbit management, the results of cottontail trapping and transfer, and the evaluation of habitat and food and cover development for wildlife. He was working on the last named study at the time of his appointment.

Mr. Bowers obtained his Bachelor of Science degree in zoology and entomology at The Pennsylvania State University in 1946. He received his Master's degree in Wildlife Management at Penn State in 1948.

From 1942 to 1945 the Research Chief was a Captain in the U. S. Marine Corps. Mr. Bowers is married andt he father of two children. The family is presently living in Shippensburg, Pa.

Warn Election Boards On Assistance Voting

Election board workers in Monessen have been informed that persons are not permitted to vote with assistance unless such information is contained on their permanent registration card.

The advice came in the form of a letter mailed to all of the city's election board workers by Robert P. DeLotto, chief registrar of Westmoreland County.

"In checking the May 21 primary election records we find that many persons in the city of Monessen were permitted to vote with assistance, without having their registration certificate marked accordingly, and an affidavit on file in ths office permitting them to do so," wrote DeLotto.

DeLotto pointed out that the law provides "a severe penalty both for the election board and the voter who violates this provision."

He said that a voter may not receive assistance to vote unless need for such assistance is noted on the permanent registration card prior to the election.

DeLotto concluded his letter with this comment:

"Our office realizes that the election boards have many problems and responsibilities on election day and realizes that these mistakes were not made maliciously.

However, we are bringing this fact to your attention so in the future, you as a member of the election board in your district, do not permit any persons to vote with assistance unless their registration certificate is properly marked for same."

Bare-knuckle Scrap Shaping Up Over Turbine Travel Age

(First of four dispatches)

By GLENN STACKHOUSE

SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — In the mahogany-paneled battlefields of international commerce, a bare-knuckle scrap is shaping up over whether America's airplane builders will dominate the new age of turbine travel.

The piston engine era is coming to a close. American plane builders have swamped the field for 30 years.

The jet era is opening, and the British and French have declared themselves in for a fair piece of it. In the shadows is the Soviet Union, obviously preparing to equip the jet airlines of the Communist bloc.

The battle of slide rules, sales charts and high finance is a quiet one so far as the public is concerned. But the more observant man-on-the - street saw part of it earlier this year when two shiny new foreign - built airliners toured the United States.

Britannia Broke Ice

First came the British - made Bristol Britannia, a huge, four-engined turboprop luxury job dubbed "The Whispering Giant."

Behind it came the French twin-jet Caravelle, burning almost as much champagne as it did gasoline as it hopped from city to city.

On both occasions, American builders watched glumly as the visitors offered free rides to airline executives while smiling salesmen poured cocktails and propaganda.

Both planes were behind the British Vickers Viscount, the smooth turbo-prop plane that has been in airline service now for more than a year.

The pure jet plane is powered by the thrust from its propellorless engines. The turboprop gets its power both from the propellor and the thrust from the engines' exhausts.

As of today, American manufacturers have yet to roll out their first production jet airliner. Great Britain's De Havilland Co. flew the four-jet Comet II five years ago.

Competition Spurs Work

This upsurgence of foreign competition has made itself felt.

Figures of one year ago showed that of some 5,000 transport aircraft in service throughout the world, 85 per cent were American-built. Today there are about 1,225 jet and turboprop aircraft on order by the world's airlines — and only about 74 per cent will be American.

This is not exactly causing chaos in American circles. As Boeing, Douglas and Convair close in on their delivery dates, their jet sales are holding brisk. Their orders for the next four years total 722 jets compared with 56 orders for the Comet IV and the Caravelle.

But in turboprops, it's Britain's Vickers and Bristol firms with 258 orders to only 189 for America's Lockheed and Fairchild.

British aviation experts believe, and rightly so, that the emergence of the Caravelle and Comet IV in the short-to - medium market may force American manufacturers to speed their own activity in that field.

Douglas After More Models

Douglas Aircraft, deeply involved in getting out its long-range DC8, is already thinking of a DC9 model for the short range field, while Boeing recently announced it was adding a smaller 717 model to supplement its long range and intercontinental 707 series.

Latest word from the British front came recently from Sir Miles Thomas, former chairman of BOAC and currently head of a committee to study British air transport.

Sir Miles recommended that Britain immediately start work toward the supersonic era and develop a 1,500 m.p.m. jet airliner to capture the "blue ribbon" London-to-New York traffic.

He suggested a futuristic, vertical take-off plane which would fly at 60,000 feet with 135 passengers and make the trans-Atlantic hop in two and one-half hours.

"We are satisfied from expert evidence that this project is a practical proposition within the next few years," he said.

Senate Amends Rules Of Gallery Visitors

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Senate has amended its rules to prohibit senators from calling attention to visiting movie stars, hometown dignitaries or anyone else in the galleries. Sen. Prescott Bush (R-Conn.) and several other senators who sponsored the new rule said the introduction of visitors was becoming a publicity stunt.

Undergoes Treatment

WASHINGTON (UP) — Chairman Francis E. Walter (D-Pa.) of the House Committee on un-American Activities entered Georgetown University Hospital Monday for treatment of a broken hip. Walter, who slipped on the steps of the House Office Building Friday, was reported in satisfactory condition.

3 Memorials

In loving memory of our dear husband, father and Grandfather, Stephen Banas, who died three years ago today, August 27, 1954.
You are not forgotten, loved one,
Nor will you ever be
As long as life and memory last
We shall remember thee.
We miss you now, our hearts are sore,
As time goes on we miss you more,
Your loving smile, your gentle face,
No one can fill your vacant place.
Sadly missed by Wife, Son and Grandson.

In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. Lydia Wisyanski, who died eight years ago today, August 27, 1949.
You only have one mother,
Patient, kind and true;
No other friend in all this world
Will be as true to you.
For all her loving kindness,
She wants nothing in return,
If all this world deserts you,
To your mother you can turn.
The best mother God ever gave
Will never be forgotten.
Sadly missed by Daughters, Sons, Grandchildren and Great Grandchildren.

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Robert Ciepiela, who passed away one year ago today, August 27, 1956.
We lost a Dad with a heart of gold
Who is more to us than wealth untold,
Without farewell he fell asleep
With only memories for us to keep.
We have lost but God has gained
One of the best fathers the world contained.
As we loved him, so we miss him,
In our hearts he is ever near,
Loved, remembered, longed for always
Bringing many a silent tear.
Sadly missed by Wife and Sons

In loving memory of our dear brother and uncle, Stephen Banas, who died three years ago today, August 27, 1954
His heart so kind, so loving, so true,
Loved and respected by all whom he knew,
To an active life came a sudden end,
He died as he lived, everyone's friend.
A bitter grief, a shock severe,
To part with one we loved so dear.
Sadly missed by Mr. and Mrs. John Senich and Family

In loving memory of our dear son, brother and uncle, Robert Ciepiela, who died one year ago today, August 27, 1956
Sad and sudden was the call
Of one so dearly loved by all;
A bitter grief; a shock severe,
It was to part with one so dear.
The depth of sorrow we cannot tell
Of the loss of one we loved so well,
And while he sleeps a peaceful sleep,
His memory we shall always keep.
Sadly missed by mother, Mrs. Edward Ciepiela; Sisters, Brothers, Brothers-In-Law, Sisters-in-law, Nieces and Nephews

Sub Wanted Hero's Grave

NORFOLK, Va. (UP) — The junk yard never got the submarine Tarpon, honored veteran of World War II.

The Tarpon sank nine Japanese merchant ships during the war. The sub, old at the age of 22, was sold for salvage.

She was being towed from New Orleans to Baltimore, Md., by the tug Julia C Monday. Suddenly, the Tarpon, with no one aboard, sank in 150 feet of water 35 miles south-southwest of Cape Hatteras, N.C.

"We think the gal just wanted to go to a water grave instead of the junk yard," said a Coast Guard spokesman.

Jittery Movie Stars Won't Take Stand

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — The defense in the Confidential criminal libel trial today indicated it would rest its case within the next few days, suffering a setback in a final attempt to put a host of jittery movie stars on the witness stand.

Superior Judge Herbert V. Walker Monday rejected a final defense plea to allow more than 100 subpenaed movie stars to testify whether lurid stories about them were "true or false." Walker ruled once again that only persons mentioned in a handful of Confidential stories read into the court record as evidence could be called as witnesses.

Defense Attorney Arthur J. Crowley as the trial resumed today, denied the ruling hurt his case. However, Crowley said that Walker's action probably saved many stars from embarrassing moments on the witness stand.

The ruling is expected to result in a fast curtain on one of the most sensational trials in Hollywood history. Crowley said his final defense move would be to call "two or three" more surprise witnesses and then rest his case sometime this week.

Nearly four weeks of charges and counter-charges have begun to take their toll on the nerves of the principals. Fred Meade, a Hollywood research agent for Confidential, Monday uncorked a verbal blast at the prosecution.

"If the movie studios exercised their morality clauses, there wouldn't be any stories," Meade shouted from the witness stand.

Meade, a defendant along with his wife, Marjorie, lost his temper while being cross-examined by Deputy Dist. Atty. William L. Ritzi. Meade claimed the magazine's stories could not have hurt such stars as Robert Mitchum, Maureen O'Hara, Corinne Calvet and Mae West. He maintained the stories were true and the celebrities involved brought on the articles by their improper conduct.

Scientists Urge Care in Use of X-ray Pictures

STANFORD, Calif. (UP) — Two Iowa State College scientists today warned that the need for care in the use of X-rays on women is even greater than on men.

The warning came from Janice Stadler and John W. Gowen in a paper delivered before the American Institute of Biological Sciences. They reached their conclusion on the dangers of over-exposure to X-rays after performing experiments on mice.

Their experiments showed that mice showed progressive body damage and a lower life span the more radiation they received. Female mice under the same conditions presented a "paradox," they said.

Under relatively low dosages, up to 80 Roentgens, the life span of female mice "increases noticeably." But exposures of much higher Roentgens led to "progressive reductions" in the life span of females.

Hunt for Clues In Dismembering Of Chicago Girl

CHICAGO (UP)—A special police task force and a battery of scientists joined forces today in an intensive hunt for clues into the slaying of a 15-year-old girl whose body was dismembered and stuffed into oil drums.

About 200 policemen, armed with questionnaires, made a house-to-house search of the victim's normally peaceful West Side neighborhood. Other officers investigated a host of telephone tips.

Scientists engaged in a detailed examination of skin and internal tissues from the dismembered body of Judith Mae Andersen in an effort to pin down the exact time and cause of death.

Coroner Walter E. McCarron set an inquest for Wednesday afternoon, at which time the pathologists will make their report.

A preliminary investigation indicated Judith Mae died from a bullet wound in the head. Her butchered body was found jammed into two oil drums floating in a Lake Michigan harbor.

Heat on Pigeons

NEW YORK (UP)—The heat will be on for pigeons if the American Museum of Natural History has its way. The museum Monday asked the city planning commission to approve $5,000 for an electrical system to shoo pigeons.

TV Quiz Show Has Fallen on Lean Days

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK (UP)—Dan Enright, the packager who put together such shows as "Twenty One," "Tic Tac Dough" and "High-Low," admitted today the TV quiz show has fallen on lean days.

"We've reached a plateau in the quiz cycle," said Enright. "We don't even have any new ideas on our boards for quiz shows. We're working on other types of programming.

"The strong shows like 'Twenty One' and '$64,000 Question' certainly are going to stick, but I don't think there's any doubt that just giving away big money has lost its appeal."

Enright, the of-camera half of up by the evening schedule of the three networks. Not a single new quiz show will be launched this fall. And only one new panel show —NBC-TV's "What's It For" — will be among the starters.

Many Closing Up

Since last fall, a cluster of quizzers have collapsed, including "High Finance," "The Big Surprise" and "Break the $250,000 Bank."

Enright, the off-camera half of the firm of (Jack) Barry-Enright, points out that one of the toughest hurdles of a new quiz program is its inevitable comparison with "The $64,000 Question."

" 'The $64,000 Question' was the first big TV quiz," said Enright. "It set the standard. In order to make it now, you have to be as good as or better than '64.'

" 'Twenty One' is a better show than '64' and that's why it's a success. Certainly, we have a better game—'64' has no game at all—it made it on big money and a good choice of contestants.

"But where quiz shows go from here is a mystery. If somebody could think up a way of combining entertainment with giving away money to the home viewers, he might have a pretty good show on his hands."

Contestants All-Important

Because of the decline of interest in big money, said Enright, a show like "Twenty One" has to depend for much of its interest now on the contestants themselves. Barry - Enright gives tests to about 250 prospects each week in an effort to turn up new Charles Van Dorens or Harold Craigs. Out of that number, about 25 potential guests are salvaged for their three quiz offerings.

Strangely enough, the firm's biggest problem is turning up intelligent women for its double-domer, "Twenty One."

"More women take our tests than men, but it's hard to find any really smart women, particularly housewives," said Enright "We've only been able to use seven women so far on 'Twenty One' —all career women.

"Housewives just don't keep up on things. I suppose they are so tremendously bored, they take the easy way out and just go to the movies or turn on TV."

WCAE Launches New Show This Coming Sunday

"Engineering News-Report," described as a new kind of technical journalism now in its 46th consecutive week, will use WCAE as its Pittsburgh outlet beginning next Sunday night at 7:30 p. m., just ahead of "Symphony Tonight."

The program is described as "A Radio Compendium of the Highlights of the Week from the World of Engineering and Research." It was "born" in the heart of another steel area . . . Youngstown, Ohio . . . and in the original instance it came into being because surveys showed that most engineers and draftsmen and detailers and designers and all others whose livelihood depends on the progress of technology in some form or other . . . simply were not reading the numerous technical publications planned for them.

"Engineering News-Report" opens in Pittsburgh as part of a planned network called the Engineering News-Report Network and is scheduled to use radio stations in the heart of industrial centers across the nation. It is understood that the program, with its emphasis on timely news from the world of research and engineering, is packaged in an "Easy Listening" form and is broadcast "in a relaxed half-hour on Sundays."

First-aid Treatment For Bite of Stingray

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

There's a new first-aid treatment for stingray wounds.

The procedure, developed by three Galveston physicians, is simple and provides complete relief from pain, in most instances, in from 10 to 20 minutes.

Now I know that relatively few of you will become victims of stingrays. But these nasty creatures present a constant hazard to fishermen and sea bathers from the middle of July to early September. During July and August, particularly, stingrays come into shallow water.

Since stingray wounds are among the most excruciatingly painful tha' any animal can inflict upon man. I think it's a good idea for you vacationists to know how to treat them.

Drs. J. Fred Mullins, Charles J. Wilson and William C. Best recommend treating the wound by immersing it in ice water. Since the foot or ankle generally is the site of the wound, this is easy to do.

Temperature of the water should be about zero degrees centigrade. The foot or other extremity should be dunked until the wound is about six inches under the water.

Most cases require that the foot be submerged for about one and one-half hours. This is not a very comfortable method of halting pain, I admit.

For the first five minutes or so, there will be rather marked discomfort from the cold water. But the heat of your extremity soon will boost temperature to about five degrees centigrade and, as a result, the pain from the wound is usually reduced considerably.

The Texas physicians say that neither ice packs nor moderate doses of opiates have given such satisfactory results as quickly as this immersion method.

Question and Answer

O. N.: What would cause persistent vomiting in a three-month-old baby?

Answer: Vomiting may be due to the formation of habit, to wrong feedings, or to some digestive disorder or infection.

NEW EDSEL UNVEILED — This view of the Edsel four-door hardtop in the Citation series dramatically illustrates the new styling concept which make the Edsels different. The vertical grille, dual headlights and wraparound turn indicators follow the bumper lines. The Edsel goes on display in dealer showrooms Sept. 4.

Ford Drops Secrecy of Edsel

DETROIT (UP) — The Ford Motor Co. today officially dropped its elaborate shroud of secrecy around the Edsel, the new medium-priced car it hopes will win back for Ford the title it lost to General Motors in the 1920's—"world's biggest automaker."

The nation's second - ranking producer's completely new Edsel line will compete in the fast-growing medium price field with such makes as Buick and DeSoto and is expected to carry price tags ranging from $2,500 to $4,500.

It goes on display in dealer showrooms Sept. 4.

The Ford Co. is betting 250 million dollars in design and development costs that the public will like—and buy—the Edsel.

18 Models Available

The new Edsels — 18 models in four series—will round out Ford's line, making it competitive with other producers from the lowest to the highest priced lines. Ford hopes to sell 200,000 of the new cars in 1958.

Ford officials said the Edsel is the first new car to be introduced to the public through an entirely new dealer organization in about 30 years. A number of the Edsel dealers gave up General Motors, Chrysler, Studebaker - Packard and American Motors dealerships to handle the new Ford car.

Edsel, a flashy, powerful car, does not face an easy time of it on the retail scene. But Ford is confident the Edsel will make it, like Mercury did when introduced in 1938. The Edsels are streamlined and colorful, and feature some novel firsts.

Grille Distinctive

The most distinctive feature of Edsel's external styling is its grille. It consists of a vertical, oval air opening in front of the radiator, flanked by horizontal grillwork.

In the rear it has horizontal tail lights that sweep down on the trunk door. The rear fenders feature a concave scallop. Dual headlights are standard.

The four series of Edsels—Ranger, Pacer, Corsair and Citation — all have V8 engines which range up to 350 horsepower.

Most 'Sensitive' Test Tomorrow

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UP) — Scientists and Army officials today hurried to complete preparations for the scheduled firing Wednesday of the most "sensitive" nuclear device of the current Atomic Energy Commission test series.

The AEC said the device, dubbed "Smoky," must be detonated in ideal weather and postponements will result if the conditions are not right. The shot, one of the biggest of the series, is expected to equal more than 20,000 tons of TNT.

The device will be fired from a 700-foot steel tower, the highest one ever used at the test site. The Army plans to use helicopters following the blast in a maneuver to repulse a theoretical enemy.

Electrical Workers Continue Stand

SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — The left-wing Electrical Workers Union will continue its refusal to cooperate with the Senate Rackets Committee, President Albert J. Fitzgerald said Monday. "It's discouraging to see (AFL-CIO officials) knocking each other down to pledge cooperation to a Senate committee headed by a man who is notorious for his anti - labor record." Fitzgerald said at the opening session of the union's 22nd annual convention. Sen. John L. McClelland (D-Ark.) is chairman of the committee.
